ELDORA PARK OPENS WITH DANCE; FIRST PICNIC SPOILED BY RAIN

Donora School People Disappointed By Inclement Weather—Next Week To Be Busy Time at Park.

With a dance given to patrons, Eldora park was opened for the season on Friday night. There were about 150 couples present, the dance being the first one given by John A. Weber of Finleyville.

There was to have been a picnic held at the park today by the Donora schools, but the rain spoiled it. The park had been put in splendid shape for the picnic and complete arrangements for the outing had been made. Next week will be a big picnic week, with the Roscoe schools to held their outing Tuesday, the Charleroi school's Wednesday and the Monongahela schools Thursday.

OPERETTA MUCH ENJOYED AFFAIR

High School Girls Give Musical Event Under Prof. Daniel's Direction

SOLO NUMBERS ARE FEATURES

Under direction of Prof. F. T. Daniel, music supervisor in the schools, the operetta, "The American Girl" was presented at the high school. A fair sized crowd was in attendance and enjoyed the performance greatly.

In two acts the operetta consists of various choruses, solos and duets, in relating an interesting and amusing story. In the story it is told that Eva Mahy Hope, an American girl traveling in England by mistake gets to a private school kept by Miss Carew instead of Belford Hall, where she was expected to go. At the school an Irish pupil was expected, and the students there immediately jumped to the conclusion that Miss Hope was she, when Miss Hope "dropped in." Explanations were not made until the last act and Miss Canew then was dumbfounded.

Miss Bethel Bowman was the accompanist and the following was the cast of characters: Eva May Hope, an American girl, Miss Mabel Gaut; Vera Burdett and Myra Burdett, sisters. Misses Pauline Collier and Mary Latchem; Miss Carew, principal, Miss Adelmina Riva; Miss Miffins, athletic instructor, Miss Grace Chester; Lady Melton. Miss Hazeldell Lambert; Edna Harris, Violet Newman and Dora Beale, pupils, Misses Thelma Duvall. Jean Bowers asd Alice Calvert; Bridget O'Halloran, Eva's maid. Miss Marie Heupel.

All the parts were well taken and the solo work was an especially well enjoyed feature. The comedy character of Bridget O'Halloran was well acted by Miss Marie Heupel, with many a laugh as the result.

A GOOD ROADS LOAN

There is much to be said in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment, providing for a vote in 1915 upon a bond issue of $50,000,000 for improving the highways of Pennsylvania. The amendment is exactly similar to that which was defeated in 1913 and which, under the state constitution, cannot be brought forward for five years, says the Philadelphia Record.

By November of 1918 Governor Brumbaugh will have almost finished his term and will have had an opportunity to show what can be accomplished by honest and careful work on the roads. The effect upon the people should be beneficial. Pennsylvania needs better highways, and it must get rid of the outrageous toll-gate system that imposes such a burden upon travel. The state is practically free of debt, and it could not do better than spend $50,000,000 in creating a splendid network of highways connecting all its parts. Governor Brumbaugh can do more than any other man toward insuring the success of this proposed amendment.

It is still a long way to 1918, but every highway honestly constructed and maintained will be an eloquent argument for the proposed loan. Pennsylvania will yet pull itself out of the mud.

COMPULSORY PEACE.

Somebody remarked the other day that with most of the world engaged in hostilities it would be a wonder if the war shouldn't hit South America, particularly as the temperament of the inhabitants of that region is so excitable and they are as prone by nature to mix in a scrap as the individual of the story who inquired whether the barroom disturbance was a private fight or could anybody get into it, says the Gazette Times.

One might fancy that the European microbe would almost travel in the air to our Southern neighbors and set them to quarreling among themselves after their accustomed manner, since the effect of international example is so potent. The United States minister to Venezuela, Preston McGoodwin, now in this country, explains why there is little likelihood of an extension of hostilities to this hemisphere. The European war, he says, is having the effect on Southern American countries of tending to maintain peace, instead of stirring up angry feelings. American manufacturers of ammunition are getting such high prices for their goods for shipment to Europe that they have refused orders sent in from the Latin republics, so that neither governmental forces nor would be insurgents have the means to fight.

So the cloud has its silver lining. If the European struggle is sufficiently prolonged the South Americans may get the habit of permanent peace and find it so pleasant and profitable that they will not want to fight any more. They will forget how to stab and shoot, give up the pastime of plotting and acquire the custom of letting presidents serve out their terms of office. It will be a blow to the Richard Harding Davis school of fiction, but a general gain to civilization and to the exchequers of the numerous societies for promoting the peace of the world.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A lady whose son was about to enter a university in one of our great cities was anxious that he should get good rooms in a first-class boarding house. Accordingly, she went the rounds with him.

The landlady of one of the houses they visited said, "I will let this excellent room on the second floor at reduced rates because there is a woman next door who plays the piano continually."

"Oh," said the mother, "that won't trouble my son much—he's quite deaf."

"Ah," said the landlady, "in that case I must charge him the full price!"

"Dear Percy," with sadness she wrote to her former fiance, "as you are probably aware, I am to be married to Mr. Anthony the coming month. I shall, therefore, appreciate it if you will burn all the little notes I sent you, assuring you of reciprocity in regard to those you sent me."

She immediately received this reply:

"Dear Dorothy: I shall certainly comply with your request at once. And, incidentally, as your new fiance holds a few notes of mine, I shall deem it a great favor if you will induce him to burn them with the rest."

Never ask for a kiss until after you have taken it.

Luke McLuke Says:

Once in awhile you will meet a man who is so careful of his conscience that he uses it only on Sundays.

Another reason for the high cost of living is that the bag that used to be filled with clothespins is now filled with receipted laundry bills.

A single man blames his ancestors for his lowly lot in life. But a married man usually blames his wife.

Every month is the right month in which to plant seeds of kindness.

It might help business some if women would do less shopping and more buying.

Of course silver and gold are mere dross when compared with the wealth of love. But just the same, there are a whole lot of married women whose idea of bliss would be to be a wealthy old maid who was independent and didn't have to ask any man for a cent.

They are using so much paint nowadays that when a man kisses a girl he is in danger of getting a red nose.

They can monkey with eugenics all they please. But any old time that father and mother are such natural born tightwads that they accumulate a fortune the offspring is always a good spender.

Some men are known by their deeds and others are known by their notes.

Every married woman feels that she earns every cent of her husband's salary.

You can't always tell. The girl who is holding her head highest as she parades her new outfit may be the one who has only paid the first dollar on installment on it.

This would be a fine world if everybody agreed with you as heartily as the man who is getting ready to touch you for a loan.

One advantage of being poor is that you can buy an antique chair for a dime at a junk store. But if a millionaire wants to buy an antique chair he has to go to an antique store and pay $1,000.

It is hard to make people understand that a kind word and a pat on the back are appreciated more by a live man than a lot of flowers are appreciated by a dead man.

BIRDS THE FRIENDS OF MAN

Investigation Has Shown the Extent of Their Ravages on Insects That Destroy the Crops.

A recent government bulletin in the interest of bird conservation gives some facts demonstrating their usefulness as insect and noxious weed destroyers that should become general knowledge.

A tree swallow's stomach was found to contain 40 entire chinch bugs and fragments of many others, besides other species of insects. A bank swallow in Texas devoured 63 cotton boll weevils. Thirty-five cliff swallows had taken an average of 18 boll weevils each. Two stomachs of pine siskins from Haywards, Cal., contained 900 black olive scales and 300 plant lice. A killdeer's stomach taken in November in Texas contained over 300 mosquito larvae. A flicker's stomach held 28 white grubs. A night hawk's stomach collected in Kentucky contained 34 beetles, the adult form of white grubs. Another night hawk from New York had eaten 24 clover leaf weevils and 275 ants. Still another night hawk had eaten 340 grasshoppers, 52 bugs, three beetles, two wasps and a spider. A bobtailed grackle from Texas had eaten at one meal about one hundred cotton boll worms besides a few other insects. A ring-necked pheasant's crop from Washington contained 8,000 seeds of chickweed and dandelion heads.

The quail, between his cheery calls of "Bob White," is busy consuming 135 varieties of insects. He will eat on an average 75,000 insects and 6,000,000 weed seeds a year. He is the natural enemy of the boll weevil and the potato bug and the best friend of man, who is trying to destroy him in nearly every state.

In fact, there are few birds that are not the friends of the farmer, paying him many times over in the destruction of insects and noxious weed seeds for the small amount of toll they take from his crops.

Singing While In Danger.

Though there is no definite rule laid down in the British naval regulations, yet it has become an unwritten one for the officers to instruct their men to sing when they are in great danger, as for instance, when their ship has been mined or torpedoed and is sinking.

Thus many of the men on board the Formidable went bravely to their deaths singing "Tipperary." A popular song, as a rule is ordered to be sung because most of the sailors know it, and collective singing puts more heart in them and helps them to hang on as long as possible till help comes.

Some years ago some sailors from the Vernon were blown up in Portsmouth harbor. It was in the middle of January, and an icy blizzard made things worse than usual. The lieutenant in command, who was swimming in the water, yelled out to his men, who were also battling for their lives, "Sing 'Bill Bailey,'" and probably that once popular song was never sung under stranger conditions. It is said that the lieutenant swam round and punched the heads of those who weren't singing!—Pearson's.

Much Unknown About Marbles.

Though the western part of Vermont includes the most extensive marble industry in this country, the eastern part is a virgin field where, in the lack of a general study of the stratigraphy, the structure, the paleontology, and the areal geology, it is at present not only impossible to determine the area and position of many of the beds, but also even the thickness of some of the marble formations which are but partly exposed. The marbles of eastern Vermont many of which are dolomitic, vary widely in kind and character, and the outcrops, though few in number, are scattered from the Massachusetts line to the Canadian boundary. Many of the marbles are suited only for indoor ornamental use. The greater part of the ledges are to be classed as mineral reserves which will be drawn on in the future.

A Half-Cent Coin.

In these times, when every little that can be saved on the living expenses of the poor counts, I would suggest that the United States government coin a half-cent, which would be of great benefit to those who must count every cent of expenses.

For instance, if one wished to buy a half-pound of coffee, at 25 cents a pound, one would be obliged to pay 13 cents; with a half-cent piece in use there would be a saving of half a cent. There are many other things, too numerous to mention, that could be bought by poor people, especially fruit. One often sees apples and bananas sold two for one cent. If a poor person had a half-cent he could buy one, when he did not need two.—New York Times.

"Corpse" Snored; Arrested.

When George Russell arrived in Atlanta from Birmingham he imbibed a bit too freely, and growing sleepy about the eleventh hour of the night, wandered into Greenberg & Bond's undertaking establishment at the corner of Ivy and Houston streets, picked out a nice, soft spot near the cooling board and disposed himself for an evening's rest, records the Atlanta Journal.

Employees of the place were awakened in the early dawn by the rumble of Mr. Russell's snores. Such sounds were unusual. They investigated, found Mr. Russell, and telephoned the police to come get him. Mr. Russell finished his nap in the patrol.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them (fresh air, regular habits and good food aid in restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alterative. Read this:—

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen:—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found). In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated).

(Affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and in building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of references.

EFFECTIVE WAY TO TEACH

Indirect Method and Concrete Example Alike Praised by Writer in Magazine.

The indirect method and the concrete example are the most effective ways to teach, according to a writer in Leslie's. The girls' canning clubs, organized throughout the South by the general education board, co-operating with the federal department of agriculture, have not only taught thousands of girls how to can scientifically, but have indirectly opened the eyes of as many mothers to the possibilities of home system and home development, and have exerted strong and helpful social influences on hundreds of farming communities. The method has been to assign to each girl joining a canning club one-tenth of an acre, and to teach her how to select the seed, to plant, cultivate and perfect the growth of the tomato plant. When the tomatoes are ripe, the girls meet first at one home, then at another, to can the product. Everything is done in the most up-to-date style, and the girls are taught the necessity of scrupulous cleanliness and sterilization. Canning club day becomes an occasion of social importance in which all of the family are included, so that indirectly the clubs have helped to awaken a community social spirit. There has been financial profit, as well as practical instruction and social pleasure. The average profit made by girls reporting in 12 states was $21.98. In the four years the canning clubs have been in operation the number of girls has increased from 325 to 30,000, and the appropriation of the general education board has advanced from $5,000 to $75,000. The board has spent no money anywhere that has secured better or more far-reaching results.

GENEROSITY IN WAR TIMES

Some Historical Instances Are on Record, Though They Are Not Numerous.

Instances of historical generosity are rare indeed. Of the few of record the following may be briefly mentioned: After the defeat of Pompey's army at Pharsalia Julius Caesar, instead of ordering a general massacre or enslaving of the conquered, issued an order according to every man of his own forces the privilege of ransoming one of the enemy. It was thus that Julius made himself Caesar.

After the fall of La Rochelle the English knights taken prisoners and unable to ransom themselves, were sent under a flag of truce home to England and there set free. The English, not to be outdone, chivalrously restored to the French an equal number of captive knights. From this incident came the custom of exchange of prisoners, so greatly ameliorating war's horrors.

The exchange of kindly courtesies between Grant and Lee after Appomattox furnishes an American instance of the practical value of generous actions.

And another deserves recording: When the great hearted, wise minded Lincoln, reproaching the vindictive of his cabinet who stigmatized playing the delightful air of "Dixie" as "treasonable," said: 'Not so; we captured that tune with the other effects of the 'Lost Cause.'"

Our Speech.

Our very vocabulary is degraded: the most far-reaching symbols of our language come seldom into use, or appear with diminished meaning. Follow, for instance, the course of the word "infinite" through the antics of contemporary literature. Our phraseology has become carnal; our vital terms are terms of physical life. Nowhere is the limitation of contemporary thought more apparent than in these instruments of speech. One must read again Wordsworth, Shelley, Carlyle, Ruskin, Arnold, Meredith, to meet great words now little employed, words that make you realize the utmost reach of life; in so doing, one pauses in dismay, realizing how full contemporary speech is of lesser terms, how few employ the greater words that tell the inner life of the soul.—From the Atlantic.

One Way to Put It.

A certain prominent railway director was asked by an employee whose parents lived in the country for a pass to visit his family.

"You are in the employ of the company?" inquired the director.

"Yes."

"Well, now, supposing you were working for a farmer instead of the company, would you expect your employer to take out his horses every Saturday night and carry you home?"

"No," said the employee, politely; "I should not expect that. But if the farmer had his horses out and was going my way, I should call him a very mean fellow if he would not let me ride!"

As to Sleep.

We read of the creation that the world was made in six days and that the Creator "rested" on the seventh. Edison said that sleep, otherwise rest, is a loss of useful hours. Hibernating animals in our latitude curl up for the entire winter and neither eat nor walk nor crawl. The earth doesn't stop in its revolution, either on its axis at the rate of more than 1,000 miles an hour, or in its orbital revolution of about 18 miles a second. Possibly it is this which suggested to Mr. Edison that the time will come when we shall have no need of sleep.

AMONG THE THEATRES

COYLE—CHARLEROI

An excellent selection of motion pictures was shown at the Coyle theatre during the past week. Tuesday the Paramount picture was "Pretty Mrs. Smith." The title role in this picture was enacted by Fritzi Scheff, the grand opera star. "Pretty Mrs. Smith" is a most delectable comedy drama. Thursday, the well known motion picture actor, House Peters was featured with Rita Jolivet in "The Unafraid." Other good pictures were "The Artist and the Vengeful One," "God is Love," "The Adventures of the Yellow Curl Papers," "The Ladder of Fortune" and the "Smashing Career," a comedy picture with Ford Sterling. One of the most interesting pictures to be shown the coming week will be "The Nigger" with William Farnum in the leading part.

PALACE—CHARLEROI

Monday the Alliance program attraction at the Palace theatre was "Stop Thief." Mary Ryan a motion picture favorite was starred in this interesting comedy drama. The photoplay was taken from the stage success of the same name by Carlyle Moore. Wednesday Howard Estabrook was featured in "M'Liss." Barbara Tennant enacted the title role in this production. The picture was produced in Nevada and Southern California affording an opportunity to introduce some of the natural beauty spots of the western and southern states. The story is placed about the period of 1849 and in an idyll of the gold fields and the innumerable adventures of M'Liss makes this photoplay most effective. The last three days of the week an excellent program of vaudeville numbers is being presented. The announcement for Monday at the Palace is the five part picture, "Jane Eyre," adapted from a popular novel.

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

"For King and Country" was the title of a military picture that won much appropriation at the Lyric theatre on Wednesday of this week. An all star cast was presented by the Picture Playhouse Film company, Inc., with Princess Ruspoli and A. A. Capozzi featured. The picture was in six parts. The scenes for the story were laid in Servia and a tale of daring and love affairs was narrated. Other pictures of much interest were shown at the Lyric. "The Prodigal," a two reel Kalem feature was presented, with Tom Moore and Margaret Courtot in the leading roles. The story was an engrossing one from start to finish. A later picture of the week was the three reel presentation of "The Gentleman Burglar." The Lyric these days is presenting some exceedingly fine films, much to the delight of the patrons. Dramas and comedies are well blended.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

A number of good attractions were shown at the Majestic theatre this week. Wednesday, Olga Petrova was featured in "The Heart of a Painted Woman." This was an interesting drama. "The Diamond Broker" one of the series of pictures featuring the girl detective was another number of the Wednesday program. Thursday Lottie Pickford was featured in "A Heritage of Hate" which was the first chapter of "The Diamond From the Sky." This series will be shown weekly at the Majestic. $10,000 is being offered for a sequel to the story. A number of other good pictures including, comedy, drama and educational attractions were shown during the week. One of the most appreciated and attractive of the comedy pictures was the attraction, "By the Sea" which was shown Thursday with Charles Chaplin in the leading role. It pictured the famous Charles at a leading summer resort.

ALVIN—PITTSBURG.

The motion picture adaptation of Hall Caine's amazing story, "The Eternal City," will be shown at the Alvin Theatre, starting Monday afternoon, May 24 and each afternoon and evening thereafter at 2:15 and 8:15 respectively. Produced in Italy and England by the Famous Players Film Co. this picture marks a new era in dramatic picturization. For many years Hall Caine steadfastly refused to permit his work to be reproduced upon the screen.

All the scenes in the Vatican gardens in the castle of St. Angelo, the Coliseum, the famous Roman Forum, the beautiful Villa D'Est in Tivoli, and other historical spots in the Imperial City were reproduced with the consent of the highest ecclesiastical and civic authorities.

Sunday school." The Mizpah class membership increased from 18 to 230 with the average attendance being pretty close to the 200 mark. The Sunday school is the largest in the sixth district now.

Rev. George Hackett is the pastor of the church and the teacher of the Mizpah class. R. G. Knight is the Sunday school superintendent and the officers of the Mizpah class are: President, H. R. Croushore; secretary Henry Renstrom; treasurer, George Miller.

The Sunday school is up to the minute. Trucks are sent out each Sunday morning to "gather them in." The story is told of one member of the Mizpar class, himself entirely new in Sunday school w ork, who went to a a man to induce him to go to Sunday school. The Mizpah booster, it so happened, owned the house where the man lived, and when his invitation met with refusal, the tenant was blankly informed his rent would be raised. He is attending Sunday school now.

The Mizpah class meets in the Lyric theatre, which is owned and operated by a member of the class, George Miller, the treasurer.

One of the best features has been the organization of the orchestra and it is being boosted for dear life. It is expected that it shortly will consist of 18 pieces.

MAKING OF IMITATION GEMS

Business Lends Itself to Fraud When the Dealer Is Not Over-Scrupulous.

The first artificial rubies were made by fusing the dust of small and inferior rubies, and the products were called reconstructed rubies. They brought from $50 to $80 a carat, and were soon driven from the market by the cheaper synthetic or scientific rubies. These are made by mixing and fusing certain chemicals which are not costly, and the imitation gems are sold by legitimate dealers for a small part of the price of the old, reconstructed rubies. One fraud is in selling the synthetic rubies at high prices, calling them reconstructed, and representing them as made up of real, natural rubies.

Another fraud is in selling artificial white sapphires as synthetic diamonds. The jewelers say that no synthetic diamonds have ever been made for the market. Diamond dust has been made at enormous cost in experiments, but no diamonds suitable for ornaments have ever been made artificially. The diamond dust made by a French chemist would cost vastly more than similar dust from the diamond mines of South Africa.

The dishonest dealer can get a much higher price for the synthetic sapphire if he can persuade his customer that it is a diamond. Blue is the desirable solor for a sapphire, and therefore artificial white sapphires are not of much account when sold simply for what they are.

BIRDS NOT PROPERLY NAMED

Many Have Misleading Appellations—"Meadow Lark" One of the Clearest Illustrations.

Many of our birds are often called, even in books, by names which are misleading. The average young bird student really knows more about birds than the folks who gave some of our birds their names. While these birds were as yet without English names Harry would naturally "stick," especially if the names were reminders of the birds the early settlers had known across the sea. But the "misfitting" names are by no means all due to this cause, as we shall see.

"Meadow lark" is an example of one kind of misnaming. The real American representatives of the European larks are our horned larks. These are much smaller, more quiet and less showy birds than the big starlings; hence they failed to attract attention. But these starlings of the open meadows, with their habit of singing on the wing, sometimes as they circled to alight, suggested to the people, however remotely, their beloved larks; so they were called meadow larks.

"Robin," as applied to our ruddy-breasted thrush, is another example, but a less serious one. Even to this day one occasionally hears our bird called "redbreast," as was done by the early colonists on account of the ruddy coloring which it had in common with the English warbler, which they had known so well as "robin-redbreast."—St. Nicholas.

OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With. A Charleroi Resident Furnished it.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Charleroi people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Charleroi and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. Thomas Christopher, 117 Lookout avenue, Charleroi, says: "One of the family did a lot of heavy lifting and strained his kidneys. He suffered severely from a dull, heavy ache across his back and he got so bad that he couldn't work. He was treated by doctors and tried various medicines, but didn't get much relief. The kidney secretions were discolored and caused much annoyance. The first few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought him relief and one box cured him."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Christopher recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
